

Call for Papers

Some of the areas covered in the journal are

- All science and engineering disciplines
- Application of scientific inventions for engineering purpose
- Advances in engineering and technology
- Any new methodology to support engineering products
- Any new area which has potential to be published in an International journal
- Areas related to computers and communication
- Advancement in technical and executive innovations